

Tax Payment Options

Since your unpaid balance is subject to interest which grows everyday and subject to a monthly late payment penalty, you should pay your tax debt in full as soon as you can. This will keep the amount you owe as low as possible. You can also be charged a fee if you do not file a tax return, so it is important to file your tax return even if you cannot pay the full tax amount right away.

You may pay your tax debt in various ways. You may pay electronically or send a check or money order, made out to "United States Treasury." You may pay the full amount you owe or a smaller amount you are able to pay. Please include your social security number on your payment.

If you cannot pay in full right away, the IRS offers short-term extensions of time to pay in full from 10 to 120 days.

For more information, visit the IRS' Online Payment Agreement website (<http://www.irs.gov/businesses/small/article/0,,id=108347,00.html?portlet=1>).